

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to managing insurance programs. In another aspect, the present invention relates to managing insurance programs that provide an opportunity for a policy owner to be eligible for increasing benefits the greater the total amount of premiums paid by the policy owner. In even another aspect, the present invention relates to providing health insurance in which ownership of a portion of the premiums of a policy owner vests in the policy owner.